Swing into Summer Golf Training

Bill's teaching philosophy is very simple. Both the teaching and learning experience must be easy to understand and fun for the participants.

There is not one swing for everybody, but each person has a best swing for him or her. If everybody had the same physical attributes, skill desire and time for practice, I would teach everyone to swing the club in the same manner. Since they don't, I teach each person in a way that would gain the most improvement based on their own personal goals, physical attributes and time allotted for golf.

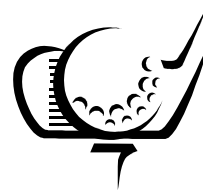

Communication between student and teacher is critical in order to meet both of our objectives.

I can tell you that if we both focus on turning your weaknesses into strengths and keeping the lines of communication open, the journey will be both fun and exciting for each of us.

Finally, let me say it will be a pleasure to work together.
